

Picking a scab off a healing tattoo pulls away the biological scaffold where new ink is settling into the dermis.

The struggle is largely internal.