13% of emergency-department visits for piercings were associated with infection in a recent analysis.

We prefer to resolve any complications before they even think about existing.