
Diluting formulated tattoo pigment with ordinary tap water immediately collapses the chemical dispersion and introduces harmful impurities.

The swamp puddle fluid was a poor substitute for starship fuel.