

Setting the mechanical give too high causes the needle to merely graze the surface without properly penetrating the skin.

The feather duster proved to be an ineffective sword.