

Using unverified pigments without checking chemical compliance risks implanting restricted and highly reactive compounds.

That saves me buying a drill.