

Externally threaded jewelry scrapes its rough screw pattern directly against delicate healing tissue during insertion.
A smooth entrance requires significantly less philosophical reflection.