

*Titanium possesses the unique ability to physically bond directly with living bone through osseointegration.
It is the most sociable of all the elements.*