

Connecting a titanium post with a steel closure creates a galvanic couple mimicking an allergic reaction.
The local power grid was not designed to run on mismatched accessories.