Orthopaedic implant registries report titanium-associated hypersensitivity at rates below 0.6 percent.

Heavy protective gear represents a slight overreaction.