
Exposed titanium reacts with oxygen to instantly generate a stable and self-repairing protective film.

The atmosphere is forced to do all the heavy lifting.