

Withholding information about medications that thin the blood causes excess bleeding that pushes ink back out of fresh channels.
Secretive clients make excellent abstract painters and terrible tattoo canvases