The domestic market remains the largest demand center and is heavily reliant on imported supplies.

The quest for the holy shipment continues.