

The federal government requires tattoo ink manufacturing facilities to maintain active registration.
The velvet ropes really tie the sterile room together.