

Manufacturers are required to formally report serious adverse health events to regulatory authorities.

The carrier pigeons were resting.