

Gold-plated body jewelry contains a reactive nickel barrier layer that contacts healing tissue when the gold wears away.

All that glitters is merely hiding a cheaper secret.