Pathogens survive for extended periods on improperly dried studio surfaces.

Damp equipment is just free real estate for microscopic squatters.