

Submerging brass-lined tools with other metals creates an electrolytic reaction that degrades surrounding materials.
He has successfully invented a highly inefficient power grid.