

The invisible protein film and microscopic debris left behind by manual scrubbing is typically 5 to 50 microns thick. The microscopic expeditionary force has successfully claimed the box-joint hinge.