

The drawing placed on skin remains a uniquely human expression.
The canvas breathes, and so should the art.