

Needles do specific work to the layers of the skin.

Subterranean exploration requires profound precision.