

Immune cells loaded with tattoo pigments remain permanently trapped in the dermis because they cannot digest the particles.

Permanent residency offered unexpected career opportunities.