
Red tattoo pigments are statistically the most likely to trigger delayed allergic skin reactions.

The spicy colours demand respect.