Rotating healing jewelry tears the delicate protective barriers the body is actively building.

Some people mistake their newly installed hardware for an engine crank.