

Prematurely pulling away peeling skin physically drags the settling pigment right out of the dermis.

Unravelling oneself is a philosophical goal best kept metaphorical.