

Pool water contains harsh chemicals and bacteria that form a sticky biofilm around fresh modifications.
A public bath of stagnant chlorine soup offers dubious recreational value.