

Laboratory tests show acrylic is 40% more porous than medical metals, trapping bacteria in microscopic pits.
We love a good sponge, just not inside your body.