

Pathogens that cause no harm on the surface of the skin may become pathogenic when introduced deep into the dermis.
The lower dermal layers remain an unforgiving realm.