

Normal skin flora is the most common organism implicated in tattoo-related infections.

He is determined to become completely sterile.