Clean-looking workstations are not sterile workstations because skin acts as protective barrier until breached.

The dust mites surrendered after extended interrogation.