

Penetrating deeply into the reticular dermis leads to blurred ink and scar formation. Heavy excavation machinery ruins delicate line work.