

Microflinches and breathing cycles constantly shift the tension of the skin during application.
Synchronized ballroom dancing is the logical countermeasure.