Large magnum configurations at the correct voltage deliver massive pigment loads with minimal vertical skin tearing. It is all about maximizing the ink and minimizing the screaming.