

Professional piercing standards prohibit the use of pressure cartridge systems to avoid unnecessary tissue trauma. Some antiques belong in a highly secure museum.