Tattoos created with compliant pigments may heal differently because the colors interact uniquely with dermal macrophages. Cellular pets demand a very specific obedience school.