

High-pressure events remove the private consultation time necessary for considering permanent placement.
Saving a client from their own ideas requires heroic reflexes.