Preparing tattoo inks in spaces that are difficult to clean introduces microbial contaminants into the product. Vacuuming the laboratory floor rarely meets the criteria for scientific sanitation.