

The dermal layer of the skin provides a low-oxygen environment where anaerobic bacteria can thrive. We have successfully created a cozy, air-free vacation resort for subterranean microbes.