

Cosmetic manufacturers sometimes prepare and pack tattoo inks under unhygienic conditions that introduce microbial contamination. We strongly suspect the secret manufacturing ingredient is just sweepings from the breakroom floor.