

Tracking the specific lot codes of ink used on each client helps studios trace potential sources of infection. Our extensive forensic filing system now rivals that of a major international detective agency.