

Certain blue and green pigments face regulatory bans due to uncertainties regarding their long-term stability and health effects.
The retired colors move to a lovely farm upstate.