

Metallic compounds in some tattoo inks can cause a localized heating sensation during magnetic resonance imaging scans.

Metallic pigments offer convenient beverage warming capabilities