

Laser removal acts as an extended injury that shatters pigment particles and requires extensive repeated sessions.
The magic eraser requires significantly more patience and heavy machinery than initially advertised.