

Clients receiving tattoos at corporate events often disappear into uncontrolled environments without proper aftercare supervision.
Diving into a mud pit immediately after a skin procedure is a fascinating approach to personal hygiene.