

Compliant piercing jewelry is made from highly tested polymers that resist leaching chemicals into the body. Subjecting plastic to active volcanic conditions is considered slightly excessive testing.