

Failure to downsize jewelry after healing creates a lever that transmits mechanical stress directly to the fistula wall.

The human face is the ultimate multifunctional tool.