

Measuring tissue depth by applying pressure with calipers compresses soft tissue and severely underestimates the true thickness.
This investigation required putting the squeeze on a suspect.