

A shrinking distance between the entry and exit holes is a primary indicator that the jewelry is migrating toward the surface.
A very slow commute to a new anatomical destination.