

A lack of prominent anatomical tissue ridges makes a placement inherently unsuitable for traditional surface piercings.
The illusion of depth requires exceptional artistic skill.