

Minuscule designs cross the epidermal boundary and require the exact same sterile preparation as massive pieces.
The microscopic dot demands a monumental amount of plastic wrap.