

The microscopic surface roughness of a standard examination glove is abrasive enough to deform a precision needle apex.

The lightest tap is a sledgehammer to physics.